BREVITIES OF FUN.

—“Pa, aren't moths awfully hungry, only eating holes?”—Pick-Me-Up.

—“That,” said the engineer, “is a 50 horse-power engine.” “Don't you figure it by bike-power yet?” asked the wheelman.—Puck.

—Amateur Rider—“If I only knew where this confounded horse wants to go. It's all the same to me, though.”—Fliegende Blaetter.

—“Yoh nobber yet,” said Uncle Eben, “could fin' er man so stingy dat he ain' willin' ter share his loafin' time wif somebody dat's really busy.”—Washington Star.

—Gen. Pompus—“I am to speak at a banquet to-night, and I want you to write my speech for me.” Scribe—“What do you take me for—a gas-fitter?”—Truth.

—Customer—“What is your outside figure for a dozen photographs?” Photographer—“Outside figure, four dollars; ten dollars with cathode rays.”—Yonkers Statesman.

—Rev. Parsons—“I hope there was something about my sermon which interested you?” Mr. Knapp—“Yes, sir; it was long to be remembered.”—Yonkers Statesman.

—Mamma—“You know, Johnny, when mamma whips her little boy, she does it for his own good.” Johnny—“Mamma, I wish you didn't think quite so much of me.”—Boston Transcript.

—His Wife—“Your late hours and your drinking habits are enough to try the patience of the Angel Gabriel!” Mr. Gagway—“Gabriel wouldn't mind it at all. He's something of a tooter himself.”—Chicago Tribune.

—Young Lady (who has been called a “peach”)—“Charley has such a funny way of talking! He called me—let me see—it was the name of some fruit.” The Boarding Mistress—“Was it a prune?”—Boston Transcript.

OUT OF STEP.

Private Potts' Unique Way of Straightening Things Out.

Col. Page, who commanded a Pennsylvania regiment in the civil war, often used to tell laughingly his first experience in marching the raw men who had enlisted for the war of the rebellion. He was given command of a company, and after some preparatory drill, led them down a street in Philadelphia. They marched as well as could be expected for several blocks, when suddenly from the ranks rang out a loud “Halt!” The men wavered, and then came to a full stop.

“Who gave that order?” thundered the enraged captain.

“Potts, sir!” “Potts!” a dozen voices called, and every eye turned on Potts, a stout German, a butcher by trade.

“What do you mean, sir, by giving that order?” demanded the captain.

“Well, sir, I've been trying for two blocks to get this company to keep step with me, and they wouldn't do it. So I stopped them to begin all over again.”

Capt. Page's anecdote suggests the story of the old Scotchwoman who called on her minister to say that she and her brother John had decided that all the members of the Scottish kirk believed false doctrine and would be lost, and that John and she would in future worship at home by themselves.

“I am very glad,” said the minister, dryly, “that there are two of you who are right and will be saved.”

“Aweel, I'm no sayin'!” said Jean, shaking her head. “Times I hae doots o' John.”—Youth's Companion.

How Big Are We?

An article in a recent English magazine upon “The Measurement of a Man,” has some very interesting facts worthy of preservation. They were collected by the “British association.” The average Scotchman is five feet eight and five-eighths inches high; the average Irishman, five feet seven and seven-eighths inches; the average Englishman, five feet seven and one-half inches; the average Welshman, five feet six and five-eighths inches. The British professional class, according to the bulk of the statistics, average five feet nine inches, and are the tallest men in the world, except some of the South Sea Islanders. About 10,000 persons were examined at the health exhibition; the tallest man was six feet seven and one-half inches; the tallest woman, five feet ten and three-eighths inches; the heaviest man was 22 stone (how much in pounds?); the heaviest woman 15 stone 12 pounds. Yet it was remarkable how level were the dimensions of the vast majority.

Attacking the Sultan.

The sultan of Turkey is being assailed by revolutionary pamphlets. One of them recently disseminated in Constantinople says: “What need has the khalif of 200 wives? The law of the sheri allows only four. Four, then, let him have, and drive out the rest. Why should we have 200 aides-de-camp—young men full of vigor—held in idleness? Leave him 20.”

In a young girl's life there comes a time when the careless innocence of childhood changes to the modest, blushing maidenly self-consciousness of approaching maturity. The eye is brighter; the form is rounder; there is a touch of shy coquetry in the glance—the girl has become a woman. She has entered that critical period so full of happy possibilities, yet so hedged about with the physical sufferings and dangers peculiar to her sex.

It has been said that to be a woman is to suffer. Too often this is true. A woman's whole nature is so bound up in the special functions of her womanhood that any disturbance of this sensitive organism throws the whole system out of harmony. “Female weakness” causes nine-tenths of all the wretchedness which women endure. It can never be permanently relieved by “local treatments.” That is generally an expensive, embarrassing, useless, make-shift. What is needed is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to reach the innermost sources of the trouble and restore health and strength directly to the internal organs. This stops the weakening drains which sap life's foundation; heals all ulcerated conditions, gives the ligaments elastic power of themselves to correct misplacement of internal organs and imparts tone, vigor and vitality to the entire feminine organism. In a word the “Favorite Prescription” makes healthy, happy women.

Dr. Pierce is the Chief Consulting Physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. He has made a life-study of women's peculiar ailments. Over ninety pages of his great work, “The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser,” are devoted to the consideration of diseases peculiar to women. Successful means of home-treatment are therein suggested, making it unnecessary to employ a physician, or to submit to his “examinations” and the stereotyped, but generally useless, “local treatment.” Twenty-one (21) one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, will bring a copy of this useful book. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.
